Hogan Development Survey (HDS)

Report for: Sam Poole

ID: UH608703

Date: 01.5.2018

Introduction

The Hogan Development Survey evaluates 11 forms of interpersonal behaviour that can cause problems at work and in life. Behaviours associated with elevated HDS scores can be strengths, but when overused can derail relationships and careers. Individuals who understand their performance limitations have more successful careers. This report builds self-awareness by highlighting behavioural tendencies of which Sam Poole may be unaware.

- The HDS identifies behavioural tendencies that emerge when a person is stressed, bored, or fatigued.
- Research shows that people with lower HDS scores have fewer problems at work. High-risk and moderate-risk scores indicate areas of concern, but low scores indicate underused strengths that also deserve attention.
- The average person has three or four high-risk HDS scores.
- Sam Poole's HDS scores should be interpreted in the context of his/her everyday behavioural information provided by a measure of normal personality, like the Hogan Personality Inventory.
